

List of reviewers 2018 - Elenco dei revisori 2018

Paolo Rossi, Università degli studi di Milano-Bicocca

Concetta Metallo, Università degli studi di Napoli Parthenope

Davide Bizjak, Università degli studi di Napoli Federico II

Sara Lombardi, Università degli studi di Firenze

Mario Pezzillo Iacono, Università degli studi della Campania

Fabrizio Montanari, Università degli studi di Modena e Reggio Emilia

Attila Bruni, Università degli studi di Trento

Cristinao Gori, Università degli studi di Trento

Paolo Perulli, Università degli studi del Piemonte Orientale

Riccardo Spinelli, Università degli studi Genova

Raimondo Ingrassia, Università degli studi di Palermo

Arabella Mocciano Li Destri, Università degli studi di Palermo

Daniele Mascia, Università degli studi di Bologna

Rocco Reina, Università degli studi Magna Graecia di Catanzaro

Tommaso Vitale, Sciences Po

Studi organizzativi n. 2 2019, Issn 0391-8769, Issn-e 1972-4969

DOI: 10.3280/SO2019-002012

Copyright © FrancoAngeli

N.B: Copia ad uso personale. È vietata la riproduzione (totale o parziale) dell'opera con qualsiasi mezzo effettuata e la sua messa a disposizione di terzi, sia in forma gratuita sia a pagamento.

Authors - Notizie sugli autori

Maryam Ahmadiyankooshkghazi holds a MSc in Mathematical Finance, awarded by Queen Mary, University of London, a MSc in Pure Mathematics from Shiraz University (Iran) and, a BSc in Pure Mathematics from Sistan va Blochestan University (Iran).

E-mail: maryam@martinreddington.com

Elmira Bakhshalian holds a MSc in Occupational Psychology and BSc in Psychology, both awarded by Goldsmiths, University of London. She is currently undertaking her second MSc in Human Resource Management and Organisational Analysis at King's College London. Her most recent publications include 'Dark side of personality, intelligence, creativity, and managerial level', published in the Journal of Managerial Psychology and, a book; PEP® Dr: Unlocking the Puzzles of Peak Engagement and Performance, co-authored with Dr Martin Reddington.

E-mail: elmira.bakhshalian@kcl.ac.uk

Ingrid Basso is fixed term research assistant in Theoretical Philosophy at the Department of Philosophy of the Catholic University of Milano, Italy. She also teaches Philosophy of Communication for the Master degree program in Digital Asset and Media Management (G.E.C.O.) at the Catholic University of Brescia, Italy. Her main research interests lie in the thought of Søren Kierkegaard connected with the decline of the German Idealism. She has been Ph-D research fellow at the Søren Kierkegaard Research Centre at the University of Copenhagen and at the Howard V. and Edna H. Hong Kierkegaard Library of the St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota - USA.

E-mail: ingrid.basso@unicatt.it

Rita Bissola is associate professor of Organization Theory and Design at the Department of Economic and Business Management Sciences, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Milan, Italy, where she teaches Organization Design and Organizational Behavior. She received her Ph.D from LUISS Guido Carli. Her research interests include innovation in HR, employee engagement, as well as individual and team level factors that enhance organizational creativity. She is coordinator of the International HRM Master Program at Università Cattolica.

Studi organizzativi n. 2 2019, Issn 0391-8769, Issn-e 1972-4969

Copyright © FrancoAngeli

N.B: Copia ad uso personale. È vietata la riproduzione (totale o parziale) dell'opera con qualsiasi mezzo effettuata e la sua messa a disposizione di terzi, sia in forma gratuita sia a pagamento.

E-mail: rita.bissola@unicatt.it

Domenico Bodega, PhD, is full professor of Organization Theory and Design at the Department of Economic and Business Management Sciences, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Milan and Rome, Italy, where he teaches Organization Design and Organizational Behavior. He is Dean of Faculty of Economics. He was Director of Ph.D School in Economics and Management; Director of Department of Management, Finance and Accounting; Director of the Research Centre in Health Care Management (Università Cattolica). He is currently involved in several research projects concerning Organization Design, Organizational Behaviour, Human Resource Management and Leadership effectiveness.

E-mail: domenico.bodega@unicatt.it

Tanya Bondarouk is (inter)nationally recognized as a co-founder of the interdisciplinary scholarly field of Electronic/Digital Human Resource Management. Authoring more than 100 international journals and book chapters publications, 12 scholarly books, and editing 12 special issues in international refereed journals, she has been conducting research into an integration of HRM and Digitalisation, examining conditions for implementations of digital innovations, and contextualising of the success of digitalisation. The main foci of her research programme over the last five years cover assessment of the impact of digitalisation on the workforce architecture and competences within public and private organizations; and exploration of the roles and interdependencies of Technology, Organizational and People factors in the digital transformation.

E-mail: t.bondarouk@utwente.nl

Anna Bos-Nehles is Assistant Professor in the field of Human Resource Management at the University of Twente. Her main research interest lies in the role of line managers towards HRM implementation effectiveness, their effect on innovative employee behaviours and their role in digitalization. She focuses on how line managers implement HRM policies and practices at the operational level, in the way they shape the innovative behaviour of employees in all areas of the organisation and how they use digital applications to manage their subordinates. Her research has been published in peer-reviewed international outlets such as Human Resource Management, The International Journal of Human Resource Management, and Personnel Review.

E-mail: a.c.nehles@utwente.nl

Eleonora Brivio, PhD, is a research fellow at the Centro Studi e Ricerche di Psicologia della Comunicazione, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore of Milan, Italy. Her research is focused on Technology Mediated Interactions, User Experience assessment, especially in the field of health and wellness, and the methodological implications of technology-based research.

E-mail: eleonora.brivio@unicatt.it

Federico Butera, work scholar and architect of complex organizations. Emeritus Professor of Organization Sciences. Former Full Professor at the University of Milan Bicocca and at the Sapienza University of Rome. Founder and President of the IRISO- Istituto for Action Research on Organization and Systems since 1974. He is the Director of the journal Studi Organizzativi. He authored over 200 articles and 35 books in Italy and abroad. His latest book in print is Organizzazione e società. Innovare le organizzazioni dell'Italia che vogliamo, Marsilio.

E-mail: federico.butera@unimib.it

Maurizio Decastri è Professore Ordinario di Organizzazione aziendale nonché Prorettore con deleghe al Personale, all'Organizzazione ed ai Rapporti con le Imprese presso l'Università degli Studi di Roma "Tor Vergata". Egli è anche Presidente del Consiglio di Amministrazione del TOR VERGATA-CONFAP ContaminAction Hub.

E-mail: maurizio.decastri@uniroma2.it

Edoardo Della Torre is associate professor at the Department of Management, Economics and Quantitative Methods of the University of Bergamo (Italy), where he teaches Organizational Theory and Design, and affiliate professor at the IESEG School of Management of the Catholic University of Lille (France). He is also the Dean of the SDM School of Management of the University of Bergamo. His areas of research include the management of human capital, the development of new organizational forms, the complementarities between collective and individual dimensions of employment relationships.

E-mail: edoardo.dellatorre@unibg.it

Fatima Elmi holds a MSc in Social and Cultural Anthropology, awarded by University College London and a BSc in Psychology from Goldsmiths, University of London. She is currently undertaking her second MSc in Human Resource Management and Organisational Analysis at King's College London.

E-mail: faduma.elmi@kcl.ac.uk

Tommaso Fabbri is Full Professor of Organization and Human Resource Management at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia and Scientific Coordinator at Marco Biagi Foundation, where he leads the Observatory on Performance Appraisal and the international video contest Short on Work. His recent research focuses on ICT, organization and work regulation.

E-mail: tommaso.fabbri@unimore.it

Andrea Gaggioli is professor of psychology at Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore in Milan and senior researcher at the Applied Technology for Neuro-Psychology Lab (ATN-P LAB) of I.R.C.C.S. Istituto Auxologico Italiano. His main research focus on Positive Technology, a topic at the intersection of psychology, neuroscience and interactive design, which studies how digital tools can be used to help individuals achieve greater wellbeing.

E-mail: andrea.gaggioli@unicatt.it

Caterina Galdiero is Post-doc Fellow in the Department of Economics - University of Campania Luigi Vanvitelli . Her research focuses on the relationship between technological innovations and organizational design at different levels (macro and micro) and consequently their impact on employee well-being; knowledge management and innovation; organizational control in private and public sectors; human resource management. The research has a special focus on healthcare sector. She has professional international work experience in organizational theory in the health care field. He is the author of monographs, journal articles and book chapters.

E-mail: caterinagaldiero@gmail.com

Carlo Galimberti is full professor of Social Psychology of Communication and Social Psychology of Communication in Groups and Organizations at Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore of Milan, Italy. He is also director of Centro Studi e Ricerche di Psicologia della Comunicazione of the same university. He is author of many publications on Social Psychology topics and he developed an original dialogical-conversational approach to study communication process, which has been successfully applied to ICTs, safety training and conversation analysis.

E-mail: carlo.galimberti@unicatt.it

Raffaele Giannitelli is an Engineer and the Owner of an architecture company – Surf Engineering – through which he develops urban planning projects in collaboration with public institutions and private partners. His professional and practitioner career is focused on urban projects and quality of the common space thanks also to his involvement as the President of the Cultural Association Urban Ground, and as a Professor at the Anteprima Academy, both initiatives related to the urban regeneration.

E-mail: rgsurf@gmail.com

Alessia Gritti is a PhD candidate in Business & Law at the Department of Management, Economics and Quantitative Methods of the University of Bergamo (Italy).

E-mail: alessia.gritti@unibg.it

Barbara Imperatori is full professor of Organization Theory and Design at the Department of Economic and Business Management Sciences, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Milan, Italy, where she teaches Organization Design and Human Resource Management. She is Director of the International HRM Master Program. She received her Ph.D. from Università Bocconi. Her main publications concern HRM and organizational creativity. Her research covers both private sector and social enterprise domain and deals with a variety of areas such as hybrid organizations, employment relationships, e-HRM, team creativity, employee engagement.

E-mail: barbara.imperatori@unicatt.it

Alessandra Lazazzara is Assistant Professor of Organization and Human Resource Management at the University of Milan. She has been Visiting Scholar at The Netherlands Interdisciplinary Demographic Institute (The Netherlands) and her main research interests are job crafting, e-HRM and diversity and inclusion. She has published in several HRM and OB journals such as Journal of Vocational Behavior, The International Journal of Human Resource Management, and Personnel Review. She is editorial board's member of The International Journal of Human Resource Management and Baltic Journal of Management. Alessandra serves as Vice-President of the Italian Chapter of the Association for Information Systems and she is board member of the Association of Italian Organization Studies Academics.

E-mail: alessandra.lazazzara@unimi.it

Giuseppe Leoni is the founder of E:LAB, a consulting firm focused on digitally augmented business development.

Expert in new business models both in public and private sector, especially in Business Platform Design for banks and multinational companies and in the design and development of Digital Citizenship models for public administrations and no-profit organizations.

Cultore della materia in Social Psychology of Communications at the Catholic University of Milan.

E-mail: g.leoni@elabconsulting.it

Marcello Martinez is full professor of Organization Studies, Department of Economics - University of Campania Luigi Vanvitelli - where he currently teaches Human Resource Management and Organizational Design. He is the coordinator of the doctoral course “Imprenditorialità ed Innovazione”; He is President of ASSIOA Association (Associazione Italiana dei docenti di Organizzazione aziendale); he is a member of the board of AIDP (Associazione Italiana Direttori del personale – Campania). His research interests include: knowledge management and innovation, organizational control in private and public sectors; human resource management and organizational diversity/identity, Information & Communication technologies, compliance. He is the author of monographs, journal articles and book chapters.

E-mail: marcello.martinez@unicampania.it

Francesco Pelagallo is a Postdoctoral Researcher of Organizational Studies and Entrepreneurship at University of Rome ‘Tor Vergata’, where he is also a Lecturer in Business Administration. He obtained his PhD from the University of ‘Roma Tre’ in 2013. He is active in several third mission and social innovation projects, combining it with a consolidated professional experience gained through his business activity as consultant and member of board of statutory auditors in several companies. He is a member of the TOR VERGATA-CONFAPI’s ContaminAction Hub.

E-mail: francesco.pelagallo@uniroma2.it

Massimiliano M. Pellegrini is an Associate Professor at the University of Rome ‘Tor Vergata’. His research interests and publications are focused on entrepreneurial, ethical, and organisational behaviours; he published more than 40 contributions especially in highly-ranked journals, e.g., Small Business Economics, Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of Managerial Psychology, International Journal of Entrepreneurial Behaviours & Research, and International Journal of Entrepreneurship & Small Business. He is a member of the TOR VERGATA-CONFAPI's ContaminAction Hub.

E-mail: massimiliano.pellegrini@uniroma2.it

Mario Pezzillo Iacono is an Associate Professor of Organization Studies, Department of Economics - University of Campania Luigi Vanvitelli - where he currently teaches Human Resource Management and Organizational Design. He received his Ph.D. in Organization Design and Human Resource Management at the University of Molise). His research interests include: knowledge management and innovation, organizational control in private and public sectors; human resource management and organizational diversity/identity. He is the author of about 80 publications (monographs, journal articles and book chapters).

E-mail: mario.pezzilloiacono@unicampania.it

Martin Reddington is an Honorary Researcher at the University of Dundee. He completed his Doctor in Business Administration (DBA) at Bournemouth University in 2008 and has published extensively in the fields of HRM, management and leadership and change management over the past decade. His numerous refereed articles in international HR and management journals cover topics of e-HRM, employment value proposition and conversational practice. His books include People and Organisational Development: A New Agenda for Organisational Effectiveness, published by the CIPD, which provides a critical perspective on the field. Most recently, he has published a new book, PEP® Dr: Unlocking the puzzles of peak engagement and performance, co-authored with Elmira Bakhshalian.

E-mail: martin@martinreddington.com

Alessandro Sinatra, ora parte della Senior faculty della all'Università C.Cattaneo LIUC, dove ha tenuto la cattedra di strategia e politica aziendale ed è stato Rettore. Già Visiting Professor alla University of Southern California. Già Direttore responsabile delle metodologie di pianificazione del Gruppo IRI e prima Direttore dello sviluppo organizzativo (organizzazione, selezione, formazione, sviluppo quadri) della Dalmine SpA e docente IFAP.

E-mail: asinatra@liuc.it

Hannah Smit-Methorst is an MSc Business Administration alumni from the University of Twente. During her master thesis her main research interest was to study the interactions between HRM, technology and organizational stakeholders and how these are related to the implementation of sustainable e-HRM. After completing her studies Hannah pursued a career in product development at CaseWare Netherlands.

E-mail: hannah.methorst@gmail.com

Ilaria Vergine is a Ph.D. student in Psychology at Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore di Milano, Italy. Her research interests concern: computer-mediated communication, audience's engagement in TV series, and health and safety at work. In addition, her research centres on qualitative methodology, especially on the discourse analysis field.

E-mail: ilaria.vergine@unicatt.it