

Gli autori

Gema Alcolea-Díaz is Senior lecturer of the Journalism and Corporate Communication Department of the Faculty of Communication Sciences at the Rey Juan Carlos University (Madrid, Spain). Academic Coordinator of Communication of the Center for Innovation in Digital Education (URJC, since 2019). Team member at several R&D competitive projects – such as Iberian Digital Media Research and Fact-Checking Hub IBERIFIER (European Commission, 2021-2024) –, and at R&D competitive contracts. In addition to other prior experience in Higher Education, Communication Advisor at the Andalusia Regional Government, Spain (2008-2012) and Manager of Trade and Industry Association (2004).

Giulia Allegrini è Ricercatrice a tempo determinato (b) presso il Dipartimento delle Arti dell'Università di Bologna. Svolge attività di ricerca, anche nell'ambito di progetti europei, sulle pratiche di partecipazione e di immaginazione civica, sul ruolo della cultura nella produzione di cambiamento sociale, sui pubblici e le culture partecipative. Collabora da diversi anni con enti pubblici e associazioni nella progettazione e implementazione di processi di ricerca azione.

Giulia Alonzo ha conseguito il dottorato di ricerca in Sociologia all'Università di Bologna con un progetto di indagine sull'impatto sociale dei festival culturali. È autrice del volume Dioniso e la nuvola (con Oliviero Ponte di Pino, FrancoAngeli 2017), sulla mediazione culturale. Alcuni dei suoi saggi sono stati pubblicati da «Economia della Cultura», Impresa cultura, l'annuario di Federculture, e nel volume Il valore sociale della cultura di Roberta Paltrinieri (FrancoAngeli 2022). È presidentessa dell'Associazione TrovaFestival, il portale che mappa i festival culturali italiani.

Emiliana Armano, Sociologist and Independent Researcher, received her PhD in Economic Sociology at University of Milan. Her research focuses on the intertwining of work processes and production of subjectivity in the context of platform capitalism, with a social inquiry and co-research approach.

Marco Briziarelli is Associate Professor at the University of New Mexico, Communication and Journalism Department. He studies critical approaches to media and communication, especially as these fields intersect with broader issues in political and social theory, and intellectual and cultural history.

Shichang Duan is a Ph.D. candidate in the School of Journalism and Communication at Renmin University of China and a guest researcher working at the governing the digital society research platform of Utrecht University. His dissertation, based on a multi-sited ethnography in China, investigates platform labor in the live e-commerce industry. His research interests include platform studies, infrastructure studies, and labor studies.

Daniel Iβl is working as a pre-doc at the University of Klagenfurt, Austria. In his research he confronts contemporary analysis of capitalism with Marxist theory, asking what is to be learnt from the past with regard to current forms of domination and corresponding modes of thinking.

Tatiana Mazali, Sociologist of Cultural and communication processes, is Associate Professor at the Polytechnic of Turin. Her research interests focus on: digital culture and creativity; the relationship between human, machines and society; labour transformations. She teaches Interactive media, Digital creative industries and Immersive cinema in Cinema and Media Engineering. She is a member of the Management Committee of the EU COST Action: P-WILL, Platform Work Inclusion Living Lab. She is deputy coordinator of RN 18 Sociology of Communications and Media Research (European Sociological Association-ESA). She co-edits the journal «Digicult@Scientific Journal on Digital Culture».

Roberta Paltrinieri è Professore Ordinario in Sociologia dei processi culturali e comunicativi presso il Dipartimento delle Arti dell'Università di Bologna. È responsabile scientifico del DAMSLab e componente del Comitato Scientifico del CRICC, Centro di Ricerca per l'interazione con le Industrie Culturali e Creative dell'Università di Bologna. Insegna Sociologia della cultura e dirige il Corso di Alta Formazione Innovatori culturali. Si occupa di innovazione sociale e culturale, welfare culturale, partecipazione e studio delle audiences. Sul tema ha recentemente pubblicato Welfare Culturale. La dimensione della cultura nei processi di Welfare di Comunità (con G. Manzoli, FrancoAngeli 2021).

María José Pérez-Serrano is Senior lecturer of the Journalism and Global Communication Department inof the Faculty of Information Sciences at the Complutense University of Madrid; Pérez-Serrano is also coordinator of the Media Business Unit of this department. Specialist in Media Economics, she has the I3 Research Certificate and two six-year periods of recognized research. Likewise, she is a member of the MediaCom UCM research group, and of the R&D project of the Government of Spain CI-COMPOL.

Raluca Petre serves as Associate Professor of Media Studies at Ovidius University in Constanța. She received her PhD in Sociology in 2009 from the Graduate School for Social Research in Warsaw. She has published more than 25 articles in international journals in Germany, Poland, Switzerland, France, Italy, and Romania. Currently, she is part of the international research team of the EEA SUSTENT project on sustainable entrepreneurship in Romania and Norway. She is especially interested in public service media and the sustainability of the media sector within the cultural industries.

Elisabetta Risi is Adjunct Professor in disciplines related to the methodology of social research and the sociology of cultural and communicative processes at the University IULM of Milan. Her study interests mainly concern the role of digital platforms in daily life, and the relationship between communication practices, subjectivity and social change.

Lorenza Scaldaferrì is a Research Fellow at Politecnico di Torino, and PoliTo WeChat Official Account manager. Her research focuses on institutional communication on WeChat social media platform from a foreign institution perspective. She writes for «Lo Spiegone» - a slow journalism outlet focused on international politics – about Chinese domestic and international politics. She is co-author and co-editor of La Nuova Era di Xi Jinping. Assertività e contraddizioni della politica estera cinese, Edifir 2022.

Carlo Sorrentino è Professore Ordinario di Sociologia dei processi culturali presso l'Università di Firenze. Dal 2022 presiede la Scuola di Scienze Politiche “Cesare Alfieri”. Dirige la rivista «Problemi dell'informazione». I temi di ricerca che sta sviluppando sono inerenti alle trasformazioni della sfera pubblica e ai cambiamenti nelle relazioni sociali prodotti dai nuovi ambienti di comunicazione; con particolare attenzione ai significativi cambiamenti riscontrabili nel campo giornalistico.

Romina Surugiu is Associate Professor of Journalism and Media Studies, and Vice Dean of the Faculty of Journalism and Communication Studies, University of Bucharest. She worked as a postdoctoral researcher in Communication Studies at the University of Bucharest (2010-2013), and at the Uppsala University (2012). She also worked as a journalist (1999-2007) and served as a board member of Romanian Public Television (2012-2015). She was a member of the management committee of the EU COST Action: Dynamics of Virtual Work IS 1202. She is a member of the board of RN 18 Sociology of Communications and Media Research (European Sociological Association-ESA).